

Steelworkers Would Welcome Intervention

McDonald Makes Statement During News Conference

NEW YORK (AP)—The head of the steel union has indicated it would welcome increased federal participation in efforts to settle the nationwide steel industry strike.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, says: "In view of the size and complexity of the steel industry, I don't see how the government can help but become involved in something as important as a steel strike."

McDonald's remark, made at a news conference Thursday, was interpreted in some quarters as an expression of hope that the government would intervene directly in the 17-day-old strike.

Federal activity so far has been limited mostly to two things:

1. The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, headed by Joseph F. Finnegan, has been working daily in efforts to bring about a settlement.

2. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell has been serving as a fact-finder for President Eisenhower and keeping him apprised of developments in the strike and its effects.

As the steel deadlock continued, further progress was made in averting scattered strikes in some segments of the aluminum industry.

Negotiations continue today in efforts to prevent a strike at midnight by the Aluminum Workers International Union against the Reynolds Metals Co. The talks went on until Thursday midnight, with federal mediators sitting in.

Matt Davis, an international vice president of the union, said the main issue in dispute is working conditions at Reynolds plants in Virginia, Alabama and Kentucky.

8 Convicted On Evasion of Federal Tax

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Twelve weary jurors Thursday night convicted eight alleged gamblers of conspiracy, excise tax evasion and failure to register as a gambling syndicate.

Maximum penalties would be 21 years in prison sentences and $50,000 in fines for each man. U.S. Dist. Judge Cale J. Holder ordered a pre-sentence investigation and set sentencing for Sept. 10.

The defendants retained their composure as they heard the verdicts. Their attorneys did not indicate whether the convictions would be appealed, although one said "that's a very good possibility."

The eight are Leo Shaffer, 59, and Jules Horwick, 55, both of Chicago; Philip Share, 55, and Irvin Gordon, 42, both of Las Vegas, Nev.; James Tamer, 47, Miami; Joseph Jacobs, 64, and Charles L. (Buck) Sumner, 72, both of Indianapolis, and Edgar M. Wyatt, 61, Terre Haute.

They remained free under $10,000 bond each. Don Tabbert, U.S. district attorney, asked that bonds be increased to $25,000 for Share, Gordon, Shaffer, Horwick and Tamer "because of their past criminal convictions." Judge Holder denied the request.

The jury convicted the defendants on all five counts against them. They were charged with conspiring to attempt to evade the 10 per cent tax on receipts as a wagering syndicate, with attempted evasion in each of three months, and of failure to register with the Internal Revenue Service as a gambling syndicate.

The government called 133 witnesses, of whom 53 told of placing bets totaling $581,000. Nine alleged bettors took the Fifth Amendment. The defendants did not take the stand, and the defense called no witnesses.

The charges were based on 10 weeks of operation in a downtown office here in the fall of 1957. Internal Revenue Service agents raided the headquarters Nov. 29, 1957.

BARN FIRE LISS IS $10,000 — Volunteer firemen from Lisbon are shown fighting the blaze which destroyed the 36 by 70-foot bank barn on the John Shaffer farm on the Lisbon-Teegarden Road Thursday morning. Spontaneous combustion is believed to have caused the fire which leveled the structure. A silo and concrete milk house were damaged. Mr. Shaffer's herd of 30 Holstein cows was in the field at the time of the fire which also destroyed a quantity of hay and grain. The loss is partially covered by insurance. A fire in 1953 destroyed the Shaffers home.

U.S. Exhibit Biggest Hit In Moscow

Criticism Enhances Popularity of Fair

MOSCOW, (AP) — The American exhibition is the biggest hit in town, and it looks like every knock is a boost.

Sharp criticism of the fair in Moscow newspapers has only sharpened Soviet curiosity about the exhibit. When Soviet citizens stream under the wonder dome and around the displays filling the glass pavilion, they give every evidence of a sincere interest in what is being shown.

The young American guides say almost all the questioners are friendly. They deny they have felt any personal animosity such as implied by the Soviet press.

The Communist detractors of the fair are probably learning the publicity man's first lesson—say anything you want as long as you spell the name right and you've got it made.

The crowd Thursday—the sixth day of the fair — looked bigger than ever, and there was a festive air throughout the fair grounds.

Sharpshooters in the Moscow papers let up a bit, possibly because

Train Crash In Wisconsin Injures 47

MENOMONIE, Wis., (AP) — Forty-seven persons suffered injuries that required hospital treatment and 60 others were less seriously hurt Thursday when the last seven cars of a Chicago and North Western Railway passenger train whipped from the rails on a northwestern Wisconsin hillside.

Many of the 209 passengers on the 11-car train escaped death when the cars rolled 20 feet down a steep bluff overlooking heavily traveled U.S. Highway 12.

The train was the "Twin Cities 400" and was southbound to Chicago from Minneapolis and St. Paul. It was rounding a bend at an estimated 50 miles an hour when the cars went off the tracks about 50 miles east of St. Paul, Minn.

Railroad officials said they did not know what caused the wreck. Engineer B. D. Herou of Minneapolis said he felt something "click" just before the derailment.

"It is lucky that it was a slow curve," he said. "It just felt like a rough spot as we went around. On the second bump I applied the brakes and there was a terrific jolt."

West Germany Makes Appeal To Big Three

Von Brentano Asks Herter to Stiffen Western Position

GENEVA (AP) — Apparently fearful of a last-minute Soviet trap, West Germany sought urgently today to stiffen U.S. opposition to any major Western concession to the Soviet Union in the closing days of the Big Four conference on West Berlin.

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano made a date with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter to present the strongest arguments he could muster against any retreat from the present Allied stand that the Western Allies must remain in Berlin until Germany is reunified.

With the conference scheduled to end next Wednesday, the West Germans and some other Western diplomats foresee the possibility that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko may offer a major concession to the West by suddenly cutting the price for an agreement to lift the Soviet threat to West Berlin.

The West Germans speculate he might declare a willingness to drop for the present his demand for direct negotiations between the West and East Germany.

Such Soviet action would put heavy pressure on the West to make a corresponding concession. Gromyko might insist on acceptance of his proposal for a relatively short-term agreement on Berlin, guaranteeing the Western occupation for 10 months plus a period of negotiation but leaving the city exposed to possible Soviet action after that.

There has been no indication from the Soviet foreign minister that he intends to make last-minute concessions, but the tactic is one often used by the Soviets in this kind of situation.

Mayor Willy Brandt was brought here in the hope the popular West Berlin leader would exert a strong influence, especially on Herter, to block any move toward concession.

Illinois Mother Leaves Her Son at Ohio Pike Plaza

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The toll collector was waiting with a surprise question when the Glenview, Ill. doctor's wife stopped her station wagon at the Eastgate Interchange Thursday night to pay for her Ohio Turnpike trip.

"Are you missing a child?" asked collector Jack Warner of Youngstown.

"No," answered Mrs. E. R. Kimball as she prepared to head for the Pennsylvania Turnpike on her way to Martha's Vineyard, Mass. But her daughter, Lee, 15, seated behind her, spoke up:

"Mother, David's not here." Sure enough, David wasn't lying down on the third seat, resting because he hadn't been feeling well.

Instead, he was waiting, near tears, 42 miles to the west at a gasoline station where he had climbed from the back of the station wagon when his mother stopped there. His brother, Kim, 12, and a nurse, riding in the front seat beside his mother, had not seen him get out. Neither had Lee, in the middle seat.

David waited about 10 minutes, then sought help from an attendant at the filling station. Word was telephoned to the State Highway Patrol and ahead to the Eastgate Interchange.

Fifty minutes after his mother's arrival at the Eastgate toll booth, David hopped out of a state patrol cruiser to rejoin her.

Vice President Appeals to Statesman

Nixon Tours Soviet Atomic Power Plant

BELOYARSK, Soviet Union (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon appealed today for statesmen to settle their disputes so Soviet and American scientists could devote their full time to peaceful atomic projects instead of atomic bombs.

Nixon made his plea after traveling deep into a Siberian birch forest to inspect the site of a Soviet atomic power plant. He found a swarm of some 3,000 men and women workers, but the plant was only half as big as expected.

Vice Adm. Hymán G. Rickover, father of the U.S. atomic submarine, accompanied Nixon and seconded his words with an invitation to the Soviet engineers at offered Chief Switzer the choice of resigning or being suspended.

Then, he ordered Pettit to start an investigation of dissension on the 21-man force.

Pettit issued the following statement regarding his resignation, which is effective Aug. 31:

"It is my opinion that conditions presently existing in the department and in the city can only be corrected by positive action on the part of the mayor, who has purportedly conducted his own investigation into these conditions for the past month."

"It should be unnecessary to have a further investigation of conditions in the department by myself before corrective action is taken. I'm in no position to correct conditions without the effective advice and assistance of the administration."

Mayor Lash replied that he could take direct action only against the head of the department. No other discipline can be applied without the recommendation of the chief or acting chief, he continued.

"Call it buck passing or whatever you want, but what can I do?" he added.

He said he doesn't know who will succeed Pettit.

Dissension on the force became evident early this month when 15 officers conducted gambling raids without Chief Switzer's knowledge or direction.

Common Pleas Judge George N. Graham Wednesday granted temporary padlock actions against gambling joints in Massillon. A

Resignation Raps Mayor for Order On Dissension

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—Capt. John T. Pettit quit his job as acting police chief today and chided Mayor Edgar L. Lash for not correcting conditions on the force.

The 39-year-old captain, a veteran of 25 years in the department, resigned just one week after Police Chief Stanley Switzer was forced out. Switzer, 57, resigned during a cleanup of gambling in Massillon and Stark County.

Mayor Lash, who said morale in the department has broken down,

M. L. Benedum, Oil Wildcatter, Dies at Home

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Michael Late Benedum, fabulous oil wildcatter who earned about 100 million dollars in his 90 years, died Thursday at his Pittsburgh home.

The colorful king of the oil prospectors had an unmatchable career that extended back almost to the start of the oil business in the United States. The 100th anniversary of the industry will be marked Aug. 17 in Tutusville, Pa.

He celebrated his 90th birthday July 16. At that time the balding, bespectacled Benedum said: "I am not afraid of death because I have not been afraid of life."

Mike Benedum probably discovered more oil than any other man in history. Starting with almost nothing he made and lost several fortunes before he was 50, then went on to amass an oil empire that embraced almost a score of companies.

Benedum's principal business, the Benedum-Trees Oil Co., was the parent firm of a number of other companies, including Plymouth Oil Co., Mel-Ben Oil Co., Hiawatha Oil & Gas Co., Penn-Oil and Bentex.

The displays in the buildings were well attended also. Because of the rain, the visitors were forced inside the sheds and took advantage of observing findings on older research, Ohio wheat, forage seedling rates, use of press wheels for boosting alfalfa stands, lawn grasses and fruit varieties and diseases.

Dr. W. E. Krauss, associate director at the Wooster Experimental Station, told the visitors, "You are fortunate to be living in a rapidly expanding nation. Ohio farmers in these counties will have an increasingly important role because of the predicted boom in population."

Dr. Krauss further stated "We are superior to Russia in our research techniques, this is not an egotistical but a factual statement and Americans may soon come to

Nearly 1,000 At Farmers' Program

More than 500 general farmers and more than 400 fruit growers from all parts of Ohio and Pennsylvania attended the Orchard and Field Crops Day activities at the Mahoning County Experimental Farms in Canfield Thursday.

Heavy rainstorms kept the wagons, provided for transporting the farmers on a tour of the farms, from starting on schedule in the morning, but additional tours were arranged for the afternoon to compensate for the delay.

Corn and apple growers had an opportunity to have their current problems discussed and see crops in various stages. Plots of rich green corn were never out of sight of the tractors crawling through the heavy mud.

Corn Yields Boosted
Station agronomist H. J. Mederski, not overlooking the fact that hybrid corn is one of the greatest developments in American agriculture, said "One of the newest and most important changes is the switch to higher corn populations. Farmers who are adopting the recommendations of 18,000 plants per acre are harvesting much higher yields than others."

Research seen by the visitors spelled out relief from old problems and lent new insight. Newest among research problems discussed were: A better method of judging nourishment of farm crops by testing leaf tissues rather than the soil, sprays that give perfect control of the hard to kill mites on apples, fungicides that band troublesome apple scabs from orchards, pear varieties that resist fire blight scourge of this favorite fruit, a new yield increasing system of planting corn along with a method of preparing corn ground for trapping rainfall, and a summer seeding of alfalfa for better stands.

The displays in the buildings were well attended also. Because of the rain, the visitors were forced inside the sheds and took advantage of observing findings on older research, Ohio wheat, forage seedling rates, use of press wheels for boosting alfalfa stands, lawn grasses and fruit varieties and diseases.

Mahoning Commissioners Visit DiSalle

Governor Promises Prompt Payment of Poor Relief

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP) — Prompt payment of Ohio's share of county poor relief funds during the current steel strike is promised by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. DiSalle told newsmen Thursday that poor relief payments have been lagging for about two months but that they would be made current starting this month.

The announcement followed a visit from Mahoning County commissioners concerned over a mounting poor relief load in that northeastern steel-producing center.

Ohio customarily reimburses counties for about half their poor relief expenditures. Strikers are not eligible for these funds, the governor explained, but the strike has increased unemployment in railroad, mining and other industries.

DiSalle said he has no plans to call a special session of the Legislature, barring an emergency, but indicated three subjects that would be good material for such a session.

He listed them as laws concerning criminal conspiracy, public officials' conflicts of interest, and campaign expense limitations. None got anywhere during the recently concluded working session of the Legislature.

Need for a criminal conspiracy law aimed at jailing mob leaders was pointed out in the Stark County vice investigation, DiSalle said.

A conflict of interest law would prevent public officials from receiving anything of value that might influence their official acts. He cited reports that a lobbyist paid a legislator's Columbus hotel bill. He added that a limit on campaign expenses was just as basic in good government as a conflict of interest law.

DiSalle received a telegram from the commander of the Ohio Department, Army and Navy

Union, in Cleveland offering help in cleaning up Stark County vice conditions. An Army and Navy Union club in Canton was bombed this week.

DiSalle appointed Leonore M. Mills of Toledo to the Unemployment Compensation Advisory Board, succeeding Walter Ward of Columbus, for a term ending Feb. 28, 1962.

She will represent employees on the six-member board, composed of labor and public representatives. She has managed the Toledo Women's Club since 1946. Federal officials have urged appointment of a woman to the board, DiSalle added.

The governor said State Rep. Frances McGovern may not be able to accept her appointment to the Public Utilities Commission.

Ohio's constitution prevents a legislator from serving in a newly created post, or in one for which the pay was increased, for one year after expiration of the term of the lawmaker in the Legislature taking action.

Miss McGovern, Akron Democrat, was named to the commission Wednesday by DiSalle. She served in the previous session that increased the pay of commission members from $10,000 to $16,000 a year.

DiSalle named her to the 18-month unexpired term of Edward J. Kenealy, Democrat from Cleveland. He was appointed to the six-year term of Ralph A. Winter, Lodi Republican. Winter's appointment expired Feb. 1, but he had continued to serve.

Kenealy takes the commission chairmanship Monday with present chairman Everett H. Krueger Jr., Cleveland Republican, remaining as a member.

DiSalle noted a news release from the Ohio Information Committee, composed of employers who battled supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) in Ohio. Officers said the group would work in local areas "to achieve a maximum vote for restoring and maintaining a favorable economic climate in Ohio."

The governor cited newspaper reports about industries beginning or moving into Ohio as evidence that the state's economic climate is sound.

87 Animal Diseases Transmissible to Man

Some 87 diseases of lower animals are transmissible to man. Forty-nine are known to occur in the southern U.S., 46 of them in Texas alone, according to Parke, Davis and Co. Some, like rabies, are serious menaces to human life. Others are milder in effect. Maps above show the problem areas of seven of the most important animal-to-man diseases. Total reported human cases in 1957 were: brucellosis (undulant fever), 983; encephalitis (brain fever, sometimes called sleeping sickness), 144; tularemia, 901; psittacosis (parrot fever), 278; Rocky Mountain spotted fever, 240; endemic (chronic) typhus, 113; Q-fever, 41. Q-fever in quantities sufficient to record on map occurred only in California.

Atlas Missile Paving Way for 1st Space Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Atlas intercontinental missile, which will boost the first American into orbit around the earth, also is helping pave the way for manned space flight.

The 12-foot Atlas nose cone recovered from the Atlantic last week contained a small scientific laboratory to study effects of space radiation.

The laboratory was disclosed Thursday when the recovered cone was unveiled for reporters. The cone, fired July 21, is the largest ever brought back from space by this country. The 12,000-degree heat it encountered on re-entry turned it charcoal black. The cone was recovered off Ascension Island, 5,500 miles down the Atlantic missile range.

Nuclear Carrier Bill Needs Final Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Funds for the start of a second big nuclear aircraft carrier have been included in a bill providing just under 40 billion dollars for U.S. armed forces this fiscal year.

The compromise bill worked out Thursday by Senate House conferees still needs final House and Senate approval. It adds up to about the total President Eisenhower asked—39.4 billion dollars in new funds plus transfer authority of more than 400 million previously voted by Congress.

The measure carries an extra 45 million dollars to increase the Marine Corps to 200,000 men. The administration proposed a 175,000-man ceiling. An additional 170 million was provided to hold Army Reserves at 300,000 men and the Army National Guard at 400,000—10 per cent above the total asked by the Pentagon.

The Senate had voted 380 million dollars for the full cost of the nuclear carrier. The House provided no funds for it. The conferees agreed on 35 million to build the vessel.

Dems Hoping To Override Housing Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats pushing for a try at overriding President Eisenhower's housing bill veto called on the voice of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) to aid their cause today.

The Senate Housing Subcommittee, finishing its seven days of public hearings on the veto, arranged to play a recording of a speech Taft made in May 1953. It was described as the Republican leader's last major public address.

In it, he reaffirmed his support of strong federal housing programs, with particular emphasis on the necessity for public housing.

Eisenhower recommended no new public housing authorization this year and gave the inclusion of such a program in the bill as one reason for his veto.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) asked that the recording be played after officials of the National Housing Conference disclosed it was available. The speech was made at the 22nd annual meeting of the conference two months before Taft's death.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), the subcommittee chairman, said in remarks prepared for the opening of today's session that "unfortunately the years which have transpired since Sen. Taft expressed these views (in the speech) have shown little evidence that the Eisenhower Administration shares his views."

The subcommittee also called back top government housing officials, headed by Norman P. Mason, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, for testimony at the final session.

Taft was one of the three authors of the 1949 Housing Act which, among many other provisions, set up a program of 810,000 low-rent public housing units still being carried out.

Taft told the housing conference he had come to the meeting "to reaffirm my faith in housing and my position."

He said that as long ago as 1944 he had conducted hearing to try to find some substitute that would make public housing unnecessary.

"I think we tried everything we could think of and we couldn't come up—we couldn't find a man who presented a practical program to deal with the slum problem."

"I think we felt very clearly after those hearings that it was a field in which private industry—no matter what they said—could not successfully operate."

"There didn't seem to be any alternative except to subsidize low-rent housing."

Sparkman said in his remarks he believed the seven days of hearings have shown that Eisenhower's "veto message failed to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth about the housing bill."

Rep. Albert Rains (D-Ala.), co-author with Sparkman of the bill, told the house Thursday the message was "a tissue of half-truths, clichés, and irrelevant claims."

"The only way to provide better housing and to fight slums is for the Congress to muster the two-thirds vote necessary to override the President's veto," Rains asserted.

Court Quiets Teamsters In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — There was court-ordered peace today within troubled Local 100 of the Teamsters Union.

The local is one which has been racked with strike between factions opposing and favoring James R. Hoffa, international president of the Teamsters.

Officers of the local, elected last winter on an anti-Hoffa platform, Thursday obtained a temporary restraining order to prevent 15 members of the other group from interfering with operations of the local or even entering the union headquarters.

That came after an outbreak of fighting at the union hall Wednesday night which resulted in the arrest of 12 members of the pro-Hoffa "rank and file" committee. All were charged with trespassing and disorderly conduct.

Cases of seven of the men Thursday were continued in Police Court until Aug. 6. Four others asked for jury trials, to be held later, and the twelfth man was to be given a hearing today.

The 12 men, plus three others, were named in the restraining order granted by Common Pleas Court Judge Charles E. Weber at the request of attorneys for officers of Local 100.

Among the latter three were George P. Starling, who was defeated last winter for re-election as president of Local 100; Charles H. Govan, defeated for business representative, and Edward Hartman Jr.

The injunction petition charged them with unlawfully seeking to gain control of the union offices. Judge Weber said he would conduct a hearing later on whether to make the restraining order permanent.

Ben Gettler, attorney for the local, said he would advise the McClellan Committee and monitors for the international union of the disturbance here Wednesday night.

The fighting started after officers of the local announced a postponement of a hearing on charges against Willis Wais, a co-chairman of the "rank and file" committee.

The rebels seized the meeting room of the local's executive committee and ordered the members to resign or get out. The executive committee left but obtained warrants for the arrest of the rebels.

Meanwhile, police restored order at the union hall and there was no violence as the men were placed under arrest.

4 Children Recovering From Arsenic Poison

READING, Pa. (AP) — Four children were recovering today from arsenic poisoning, but their pet dog was critically ill.

Hospital tests indicated the children had swallowed almost enough arsenic to be fatal.

Authorities said a piece of poisoned bacon rind, apparently intended for the dog, was found in the back yard of the cocker spaniel's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oswald.

The children somehow absorbed the poison while playing with the dog Wednesday and became ill. The youngsters are the Oswald's children, Antoinette, 3, and Robert, 1½, and a neighbor's children, Cindy Lou, 4, and Lou-Ann Vitalo, 2.

Police are trying to find the person who placed the bacon rind in the yard.

HANOVERTON — An old-fashioned picnic basket dinner is planned by Pleasant Valley Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, for members, families and friends Wednesday evening with a date of Aug. 10 if inclement weather prevails.

The picnic is to be at Woodland Lake Park near Homeworth. Activities will start at 5 o'clock and will be games and contests.

Dinner is scheduled for 6:30 and will be followed by a treasure hunt. Vesper services under the direction of Miss Sylvia Brantingham and Thomas Walton, will conclude the day's activities around a bonfire. Beverage will be furnished.

Federal Reserve Board Issues Its Annual Survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — What's fueling the business boom?

The Federal Reserve Board Thursday supplied one answer.

Consumers entered 1959 better heeled financially — both in their holdings of liquid assets and in current income — than ever before in history.

The board issued its annual survey of consumer finances, based on sampling interviews across the country made by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan.

It showed that in spite of the recession, total personal income last year rose by eight billion dollars, or 2 per cent. Prices rose 3 per cent, so there was a slight loss in real income.

But Americans as a group reduced their load of auto installment debt in 1958, increased their savings and bank deposits by the highest amount of any year since World War II, and enjoyed a sharp rise in the value of their stocks and bonds.

The emphasis on saving, said the board, "brought liquid assets of consumers to a new peak in early 1959 despite the decline in their holdings of U.S. savings bonds."

About three-fourths of all families held some liquid assets — meaning checking and savings accounts in banks, shares in savings and loan associations or credit unions, and savings bonds — when the survey was made early this year.

Dior Showing High Hemline; Deep Neckline

PARIS (AP) — Yves Saint-Laurent, for Dior, cut the highest hemlines of the season today, some of them showing the kneecap in front, and even resurrected sacks.

He calls it all the "New Woman of 1960" look.

According to the 22-year-old heir to the late Christian Dior's fashion crown, this collection is deliberately aimed to be spectacular. But his show just doesn't go that far.

None of the new skirts are literally above the knee, and all curve down in the back.

Only a few of his boldest skirts show the kneecap in front, while a great many are at the top of the calf, and the big majority cover the knees completely.

In many evening models, Saint-Laurent brought back the sack.

Most new Dior creations are so flat-chested they look steam-rollered, but some have the deep-down décolletage known as "cleavage."

Waists range from small and belted to undefined to simon-pure sack. The dress and suit silhouette is generally trimly streamlined, but full 3/4-length coats look like capes in black view.

Mannequins wore chokers of beads from chin to collarbone for what was a sort of giraffe-necked effect. Saucer-sized round earrings went with them. Shoes had peculiar bent-under needle heels and needle points.

Black is the top color, with reds and blues to cheer up the many browns, beiges and grays.

In the cocktail and evening clothes, many have long trains behind but are looped up the knee in front. The kneecaps play peek-a-boo under draped and ruched strapless sheaths that fit like the skin to the hip line. One shock number was slit and draped up the right side so one whole kneecap showed when the wearer walked.

There were some elbow-length cape collars, and full cape coats with arm slits. Loose 3/4-length kimono sleeved coats were worn over matching dresses that imitated suits. Sleeveless or short cap-sleeved sheaths were covered with short matching jackets.

You're Needed Tuesday Night

Next Tuesday can be a red letter day in Salem's future progress if the public responds as it should to the evening program planned at the Junior High School auditorium by the Salem Area Industrial Development Corporation.

In fact, every able bodied Salem citizen shouldn't have to be persuaded to attend. They should want to be there so that they can participate actively in molding a brighter future for their home town.

The Salem Area Industrial Development Corporation has begun a program of attracting new industries to the city. One already has been brought here, Salem Plastics, Inc., which is getting ready for manufacturing operations in the old Brookwood skating rink.

This is a small beginning but a highly important, positive step in the right direction. New business and industry can be attracted to Salem if the Industrial Development Corporation receives the full support it deserves from Salem residents.

A few men who volunteered to direct the organization because it was a challenge to them to help their own community at a highly important time cannot possibly do it alone. It requires a team effort and those team members are you and your neighbor and the man and woman down the street.

It is time that Salem citizens awakened to their responsibilities and take a greater interest in community affairs. Industrial development is one of them.

The city will grow and prosper as new plants are acquired. New shops mean more jobs for more people, more homes, increased business for everyone and a happier participation in all the fine things that make Salem one of the greatest little cities in the United States.

At Tuesday night's meeting, which will officially welcome Salem Plastics, short talks will be given by three speakers who are experts in the field of industrial development. There will be a bit of fanfare, too, with music being provided by the Legion Quaker City Band and then all the chicken you can eat to wind up the festivities.

The SAIDC has really rolled out the red carpet. You'll be there, won't you.

No Concerts In the Kremlin

The United States has no more chance to change the minds of a kremlinite about communism than the Soviet Union has to change Vice President Nixon's mind about free enterprise.

Yet what should be obvious has been disregarded so diligently that many Americans still think about Communism as a state of ignorance from which men like Nikita Khrushchev, Anastas Mikoyan and Frol Kozlov can be rescued by American example.

Perhaps there are Russians who think they could convert Dwight D. Eisenhower, Mr. Nixon and Secretary of State Herter to Communism if they could show them its wonders. If so, they are as foolish as Americans who think they can awe the top Communists into accepting the gospel that free enterprise is best.

This assuredly is not the first time men have wasted energy trying to convert their opponents, instead of trying to learn how to live with them. But it is impossible to hink of any circumstance in which the odds against success have been longer.

IF THERE CAN BE a two-party system in the United States those leaders waste no time trying to convert each other because to do so would be futile mockery of the credo that differences of opinion are not only possible but desirable, there can be a "two-party system" in the world.

The hard fact is there is a two-party system and nothing will change it, least of all those Russians and Americans who are the core of its opposing factions.

The world is divided roughly into two camps—pro-Russian and pro-American. In addition to the two camps there are the inevitable "independents," and as is always true of the "independents" they hold the balance of power. Something else that Americans can recognize on sight has bobbed up in the system too. It is the fact that each side has a tendency to adopt as its own what seems to be good about the other.

Thus, Americans already have been tempted to adopt Russian ideas about education for the intellectual elite only, instead of carrying on their own established credo of education for the masses.

Russians, in turn, have been tempted to adopt American ideas about mass production, which might very well undo their political handiwork. They never have acknowledged it, but all the precepts of Marxism were founded on observations that have not been valid in the United States for more than a generation.

WHEN VICE PRESIDENT NIXON leaves the Soviet Union to come home, he will be as inflexible in his opposition to Communism as before.

When the deputy premiers of the Soviet Union, Mikoyan and Kozlov, went home they had not changed their minds about American capitalism.

Even the ordinary run of Russians now can be trusted to meet and mingle with Americans, in the same way that Americans are becoming accustomed to Russians.

There will be defections both ways. The balance of these undoubtedly will favor the American side. But there will be no large-scale conversions, and there will be no conversions at all at the top.

Time spent on making converts in the great ideological contest of the 20th century is wasted. It had better be spent on making progress in the service of the people, who will decide the winner.

Keep An Eye on That Transom

The Korean War Betrayal

By Westbrook Pegler

There is testimony by five of the greatest fighting men in American history, either specifically or by implication, that the American armed forces were betrayed by "the White House," the State Department or the Pentagon and forced to lose Harry Truman's "police action" in Korea, which, to this day, is not officially regarded as a war.

These witnesses are General Mark Clark, Lieut. General George E. Stratemeyer, the air commander at the time of the Chinese invasion across the Yalu into North Korea; General James A. Van Fleet; Admiral Charles Turner Joy and Lieut. Gen. Ned Almond. All testified before the so-called Jenner committee, a subcommittee of the judiciary, which was a sort of successor of Joe McCarthy's committee. Disgusted and discouraged by the fate of Senators McCarthy, Pat McCarran and Herman Welker, and by the inability of these and other patriotic men to arouse fury against traitors, Jenner retired from the senate and returned to Indiana.

The hearings on "the Korean war and related matters" were held in 1954 and 1955.

THESE OFFICERS all agreed that the United States could have beaten the Chinese Reds if Stratemeyer's "air" had been allowed to go past the Yalu into Manchuria and blast the bases from which the Chinese enemy was organizing his invasion of North Korea under Soviet auspices. Stratemeyer insisted that he had the men and equipment. But as matters were ordained by "Washington" probably by the State Department which, like the Pentagon, was infested with treasonous brass, the forces under the high command of General MacArthur were restrained from winning the war, as General Clark plainly put it.

In a summary prepared by Senator Jenner, this was the way of it: "We had command of the water and air. We had unexcelled bases in Japan and Korea for redeployment. We had the flank fully protected by our navy. The Chinese Red army was far from home, well out on the limb and in great difficulty."

GENERAL VAN FLEET said: "That is why I say this was the right place and the right time with the wonderful nation of the Koreans as our ally."

Continuing Jenner's summary we hear him say from the record: "General Stratemeyer described the situation in these historic words: 'We were required to lose Clark, Joy, Almond and Van Fleet told us the United Nations violated its own principle of collective security when it refused to accept divisions from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.'

"Our military leaders showed us how Red China's armies were originally freed to move toward the Yalu when our Seventh Fleet was ordered by our President (Harry Truman) to blockade Chiang Kai-Shek on Formosa so that he could not strike Red China's flank on the mainland. They showed us that we even put a limit on the number of South Korean soldiers who would be allowed to defend their own country. Of course, that meant more Americans would be killed. All this was contrived in Washington."

"As General Almond expressed it, 'it is terrible to have to fight both the enemy and those that you are supposed to have your support from.' The excuse given by the (Truman) administration, which seemed like an enemy to its own troops, was that if we allowed the Americans to fight to win, the war might spread beyond Korea. But if we had whipped Red China in Korea and Chiang's forces had attacked on the mainland would the Chinese Reds be building air fields to attack across Formosa straits?"

GENERAL CLARK doubted that Soviet Russia would have joined Red China in open war. There was strong suspicion that Soviet Russia, through the surviving elements of the Alger Hiss apparatus in the State Department and through the U.N. in New York was tipped off that the Truman administration would follow this line.

This gave the Chinese Reds the invitation to go to the Yalu and cross the bridges by night to start the surprise attack which led to the only defeat that the United States ever suffered in war. Jenner and others bore down on the careers of two queer English communists, both well placed in the British diplomatic service, who were specialists on American policy. These two, Guy Burgess and Donald McLean, lit out for Russia in 1952 and never came out.

General Van Fleet traced on a map the line of the only railway north and south along the coast of the Chinese mainland, Chiang's forces could have destroyed the railway in its southern stretch and the American air force, under Stratemeyer, could have made it useless for the transportation of men and stuff up to the Manchurian border whence the Red army set upon the Americans and the disordered U. N. army under General MacArthur.

There was no other line of communication. The generally unanimous testimony of these great but now forgotten American fighters got a lick and a promise in the press. The inevitable murmur of "McCarthyism" was heard, in the land, sufficient refutation of whatever proof of whatever infamy against the United States.

Statesman Eisenhower

By DAVID LAWRENCE

President Looks Younger and Healthier

This correspondent happened to be one of a dozen newspapermen invited to dine with President Eisenhower last Monday night at the White House.

Whatever the President says, informally or otherwise, in answer to questions on current issues is usually news and permission was granted to those present to report it. David Lawrence without direct quotation as they deal from time to time with the same subjects. Both of the press associations, which had representatives there, will in due course give the details.

What impressed this writer most, however, entirely apart from the many subjects that were covered during a discussion lasting nearly four hours, was how President Eisenhower looks physically. He seems healthier, ruddier of face and younger in spirit and mood than when he first came to the White House in January 1953.

When this correspondent was in London recently, he was astonished to find that the imate of President Eisenhower built-up there by news dispatches from this country was that of a "sick man" and a "puppet."

THE IMPRESSION prevalent in some quarters in Britain and in other parts of Europe is that Mr. Eisenhower is an invalid, that he really doesn't have a mind of his own and that he merely reflects perfunctorily what different advisers inside and outside the Cabinet tell him. Some of this doubtless has originated from partisan sniping in America.

A face-to-face appraisal, on the other hand, gives exactly the opposite feeling. Advisers, of course, play a part in every President's decisions but Mr. Eisenhower shows an intimate knowledge of the pros and cons of many subjects, as well as the nuances that emerge in the complicated problems of government.

He ranks high indeed in presidential stature, as this writer things back about the eight Presidents whose official careers he was studied firsthand in the last few decades of our history.

Mr. Eisenhower is not as spectacular or as eloquent or as dramatic or as bellicose as have been some of the other chief executives but he is nevertheless an effective one. Today he has an unprecedented hold on public opinion in America and abroad.

Incidentally, Mr. Eisenhower questions the accuracy of the phrase "lame duck president," as it is often used in the press with respect to his own status during a second term. The words "lame duck," he rightly points out, apply to someone who is finishing out his term after he has run for re-election and been defeated.

This writer believes that if Ike were eligible to run again and decided to do so, he would be elected by an overwhelming majority. So he really ought not to be called a "lame duck president."

WHETHER IT IS a complicated appropriations bill or an analysis of the Cuban situation or the contradictory and paradoxical aspects of the Khrushchev personality or of Communist aims or the delicate subject of what American political currents may be in 1960, Mr. Eisenhower shows an extraordinarily intimate knowledge of what is going on and its relationship to the presidency.

Just before he finishes his term he expects to reveal a study he has made of our antiquated system of operation in the executive branch of the government. This probably will be issued after the election next year, when there is no possibility of political motivation being attributed to the plan.

As for the guiding influence in Mr. Eisenhower's decisions, it can be expressed in the phrase "common sense." He has a remarkable insight into the mind of the American people.

He understands the spirit of free America and he constantly tries to apply it in his decisions. He holds tenaciously to a "middle-of-the-road" approach—avoiding the advice of extremists, irrespective of party.

He is convinced that American can make progress only by steering a safe and sane course and that the domestic danger that face us lie in the realm of overpending of public funds and economic maladjustment.

Despite the harassments of the presidential office today, Mr. Eisenhower seems a happy and genial man. When he was told the other day that there would be a third major league in baseball, he began discussing the poor record of the Washington team, known as the Senators. He thought perhaps they should have some other name, and jokingly suggested maybe they ought to be called the Executives.

THE PRESIDENT is optimistic about things in general. He thinks that social progress is being steadily made on the American scene. He knows the international situation is full of potential risks and peril but he has faith in the unity of the Western Allies. Difficulties among them are not, of course, minimized by him.

Upon leaving the White House last Monday night, this correspondent thought of a visit seven years ago with Gen. Eisenhower, then supreme allied commander in Europe. Chatting with him at his headquarters in Paris in 1952, this writer found him to be a military man with a surprising grasp of non-military problems. Today, oddly enough, one forgets that Dwight Eisenhower has ever been in uniform. The image presented instead is that of an American statesman whose whole objective is, as he often expresses it, to do the best he can for the American people.

Fairs Compared

By WALTER RIDDER

MOSCOW

Despite heavy pre-opening criticism in the Soviet press and high Soviet circles, the exhibit at Sokolniki Park in the heart of Moscow marks the first full-scale exhibit of the American way of life to the Russian people. American authorities estimate three to five million Russians will view the exhibit before it closes.

The show, which features American homes, furniture and consumer goods as well as the ideas which impel American scientific research, education, health, social services and other projects, is basically designed to depict how the average American family lives, works and plays.

The main exhibit hall, a 50,000-square foot glass structure, is crammed full of American consumer goods ranging from children's boxing gloves through adult and child books to color television and the most modern of kitchen equipment. A model house, attacked by the Soviets as being "untypical," is displayed for visitors to see how the average American family lives.

FOR THOSE who have seen both the Soviet exhibit in New York and the American exhibit in Moscow, comparison between the two is inevitable. The emphasis in the two exhibits is decidedly different. The Soviet exhibit stresses what the state can do for its people. The American exhibit stresses what the people can do for themselves.

While peripheral exhibits at the American show portray the achievements of American space research, of American architecture, of American painting and music and technology, the main stress is on the consumer goods which are or could be in every American home.

It is this facet of the exhibit, which American officials believe will attract most interest of goods—hungry Russian people, which has come under heaviest Soviet criticism.

The main exhibit is crammed with American consumer goods, many of which are new to American viewers. The goods exhibited take in all aspects of American life. At one end of the exhibit hall is a model book store and reading room; at the other end, displays of sporting equipment from horse-shoe pitching to skin diving. Automobiles, swimming pools, model kitchens, clothes, hardware—name it and it is on display.

THE PROFUSION of goods has brought heavy criticism from the Soviet press and from the Soviet high command. They have called the show a "bargain basement" and they have sneered at it as being materialistic and unrepresentative. Despite the criticism, the exhibit is expected to be packed with curious Russians. Soviet citizens are scrambling to get tickets. Russians not in official positions who have seen the show predict freely that most average Russians will find it "eye-popping."

The exhibit's heavy reliance on consumer goods is, of course, directed to the aspirations and hopes of a people who still must stand in queues for a good pair of shoes or medium quality fabric.

The two exhibits may well illustrate the differences in national attitudes at this particular moment in history. The Soviet exhibit depicts a nation driving, ambitious, straining to catch up and force ahead of the rest of the world. The United States show is more relaxed, more concerned with living today, more self-assured in that it brings its message in pastel shades rather than the flamboyant hues of the Soviet exhibition.

Is Chase Worth the Damage Caused?

Here is an incident reported over and over again by newspapers.

A police patrol squad begins to chase a fleeing driver. The driver is fleeing because he has done something wrong. Otherwise, he would stop.

Both cars pick up speed. Suddenly, a potential disaster is in the making. Panic and anger have been substituted for logic and reason. One had move and a serious accident happens.

Speeding cars smash into obstacles. If shooting has been added to the risk of insanely reckless driving, bullets may thud into the bodies of bystanders. There is no foreseeable limit to the possibilities of death and injury.

It happened a few days ago in Cleveland. At one time, 10 police cruisers were chasing a car driven by a car thief. Eight civilian automobiles and one cruiser were damaged. The car thief was hit by bullets three times. Four innocent persons were hurt in collisions.

Once Over

Conclusion from Nixon-Khrushchev arguments: Khrush has a tougher knuckleball but Nixon has a better "slider."

On the basis of tape recordings heard in the U.S., both could have been taken out for a relief pitcher. We have heard snapper repartee in hundreds of subway disputes, street-corner arguments and salon hassel.

At the very moment Khrush and Nixon were exchanging banter, we observed in mid-town restaurant faster pro and con stuff between a customer and a waiter in a dispute over the fish course. Our veep and Russian head man were disappointments in clever give-and-take and we will take Casey Stengel in a dispute with an umpire over them any time on what's been shown.

FIDEL CASTRO had his picture taken on the mound in a baseball uniform and at the top of his windup. There's a leader who knows how to get midsummer attention. "He pitched one inning and the umpire ruled that he had struck out three men in succession," said the caption. There's an umpire who wants to remain a free man.

Miss Akiko Kojima, a Tokyo gal, is Miss Universe, winning over contestants from many countries. If this had happened 20

A passenger bus was involved in one accident.

The story is familiar. It happens over and over again—the fleeing suspect with everything to gain and nothing to lose by making a wild dash for freedom and the determined pursuers risking their necks and public security in hot pursuit.

We doubt if the chase is worth the damage it causes in most cases. We doubt it particularly if one or more of the policeman pursuers must be listed among the casualties. It would be wonderful to run all miscreants to ground. But there is a price that is too high to pay to pick up the ordinary run of suspects. If they cannot be run to ground safely, they are not worth the risk of running them to ground hazardingly. Public security is hurt more than it is helped.

Wild chases in automobiles should be reserved for movies made circa 1920, when the pursued and the pursuer had the roads pretty much to themselves.

A CLEVELAND DOCTOR says when women complain they are "sick and tired" they exaggerate. They are just tired and his prescription is, "Get a new hat, eat dinner out and have somebody take the kids for a day or two." "I'm to tired to get a new hat and I get exhausted trying to get my old man to take me to dinner," says Mrs. Jarvis P. Whortleberry. "And the effort to get somebody to take the kids for a few days would knock me out." She insisted she was both sick and tired and added, "Know what keeps me that way? Doctors who make such silly statements."

In that I command thee this day to love the Lord thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes and his judgments, that thou mayest live and multiply: and the Lord thy God shall bless thee in the land whither thou goest to possess it.— Deut. 30:16.

Matter of Fact

In 1747, the British author Dr. Samuel Johnson undertook the writing of a dictionary of the English language. It was a tremendous undertaking that required years for completion. Early in the work he sought the patronage of Lord Chesterfield, hoping for financial aid. Chesterfield ignored the work until the eve of its publication in 1775. Then, hoping to have the work dedicated to him, he began praising the book.

Among Action of 103rd Assembly

Ohio's Election Laws Revamped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio election laws underwent some far-reaching changes in the Democratic-controlled Legislature.

A new act permits straight-line party voting on machines now used in nearly a fourth of Ohio's 88 more populous counties. Many of them are party strongholds.

Republican opponents claimed that Democrats pushed through the change to help keep, and possibly extend, election gains that included control of the Legislature for the first time in a decade.

They warned that previous election changes for party advantage backfired on Republicans and might do so for Democrats in the future.

But the Legislature went ahead with the new law that allows all candidates of the same party to be lined up on the machines so that strictly partisan voters can mark a straight ticket by pulling down all the levers on a line. Candidates' names were rotated on machines so that they appeared on both lines, requiring voters to hunt out their preferences to cast a party-line ballot.

That was done to conform with the office-type ballot approved by voters in 1949. The ballot lists candidates by the offices they seek and requires rotation of names. The change eliminated the practice of listing candidates under party emblems and made it impossible to vote for them all with a single "x" mark.

A more recent change decreed four-year terms for elected state officials. A Republican Legislature placed that issue before voters in 1956 when the party was riding high.

But last year, the first time state candidates ran for four-year terms, Democrats won most of the offices and control of the Legislature as well.

Another new law enacted by the 103rd General Assembly permits voters to reregister by mail for a two-year period. Democrat sponsors tried unsuccessfully to make mail registrations good for four years.

Voters who fail to cast ballots during a two-year period currently must go to election boards to reregister in person in counties requiring it.

Another change will permit out-of-state voters moving into Ohio to ballot for president and vice president, starting in 1960, if they have lived at least 40 days in their precinct. Present law requires a year's residence in the state.

The new law gives effect to a constitutional amendment adopted in 1957. The change required the Legislature to specify residence requirements.

Newcomers cannot vote in Ohio for president and vice president if they still are eligible to ballot in their home state. Nor can they vote for other candidates until after a full year's residence in Ohio.

Future ballots will look slightly different in general elections for state officials as a result of legislative action.

Candidates for attorney general, now listed in the sixth slot below governor, will appear in the third slot. Secretary of state candidates, formerly in third position, will be listed fifth. Treasurer candidates will go from fifth to sixth place.

The new lineup will be: governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and attorney general.

Other new laws permit election boards to print clearly marked sample ballots, a practice often indulged in without statutory authority; allow use of a new punch-type voting machine, and make bank money orders or cashier's checks acceptable as deposits posted for vote recounts.

The new voting machine, about a third the size of conventional models, was invented by Martin Coyle, Butler County Republican chairman. He credited Democrat leaders with helping him win approval of the device, now nearly ready for mass production.

Punched ballots from the machine can be counted by tabulating devices to speed election returns, Coyle said.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

TANGANYIKA, Africa — If you didn't raise your boy to be a soldier, then fight for more Bantus to be turned into "beent-tos," a sage African hand today advised the American people through this correspondent.

Here's what he meant: The Bantu people are millions on millions of native Africans. The "beent-to" Bantu is the educated chap who long ago left his tribal village, was probably educated by one of the great Protestant or Catholic missions and was invited to the United States. And all over Africa he is known as his return as a "beent-to," for he has the worshiped distinction of having "beent-to" the United States. That "beent-to" phrase is revered amongst the 200-million people who will turn this continent for or against us. They listen to the "beent-tos." They follow them.

YET OF ALL the thousands of young Africans eager to befriend us, our government brings over only eight from East Africa, the horn of the continent — an area which not only outflanks the Arabian oil routes to the Suez but can slash the canal's communications if controlled by an unfriendly force.

Yet both our Central Intelligence Agency and Britain's MI-5 know that Soviet agents are seeping into the "Horn" and down into Tanganyika and across to Zanzibar 25 air minutes away.

These Russian agents find a hungry people. Starvation pains can slash loyal ties, even to us.

How hungry are these folks, how sharp is their pain? The Russian agents see what I see:

Workers in rags, men with jobs, sleeping off their lunch hour in the shadow of the white munificence of the Aga Khan's Shir Imam Ismailia Supreme Council.

Here the handsome new Aga Khan was weighed in diamonds, rubies and gold. But sleeping workers lie in the street because they have no money for bus fare home.

And if they got home they would have no food. They eat but one meal a day, in fact, and at lunch time they have gone without a bite since a meager meal the previous night. They cannot afford breakfast of any sort. If they eat earlier, they must go without dinner.

So when they break for lunch, they buy a bottle of Togwa, a grim pint of lemon juice for 20 Tanganyikan pennies — about a cent and a half American. They drink this and they sleep. Then they go back to their buildings.

Once a week they eat some sort of meat. Once a week they eat rice. The other evenings they consume some sort of porridge and an almost wooden root called cassava. I couldn't cut it with a sharp knife. They boil it down and when it's cold they use it for fire wood.

THEIR AVERAGE WAGE is $2.10 a week. High wages are five dollars. In the sisal (hemp and khaki raw material) they earn as little as 15 cents a day. This I checked and rechecked.

Maybe back home you think I talk of jungle people. They certainly are not. I lived with them for two days. I saw them put on amateur theatricals. I heard their new African jazz unlike anything out of New Orleans. I heard their children sing in trained chorus.

"Mee-le-le Afrika, Mee-le-le Afrika (Forever Africa)." And in English: "When the Sun goes marching down I don't know why I shouldn't be free." And in Swahili they sang: "When the light came out of the darkness — one man was for me — (Julius) Nyerere."

The man they sang of is the man who will lead Tanganyika when it becomes an independent nation next year. He is one of the United States has in Africa. Next year he will try to build a democracy here.

Nyerere is a "beent-to," a sage friend of the West. But if he is beaten down by the hunger of his people and hunger turns men angry, the next "beent-to" will have "beent-to" Moscow.

Vitamin B Foods Prevent Pellagra

Pellagra is among the major diseases which can be caused by vitamin deficiency.

Although no longer really common in North America, pellagra still occurs from time-to-time and possibly is not recognized for what it is in some instances.

That pellagra is still not as rare as it should be, is shown by the fact that I have received several letters asking me to discuss it.

Pellagra is essentially a disease which is caused by a deficiency of certain foods in the diet. It has been widely distributed over many parts of the world for a long time.

In 1930, over 6,000 deaths in the U.S. registration area were reported as having been caused by pellagra. By 1940, this had fallen to slightly more than 2,000. The decline is continuing.

A few years ago, the United Nations announced plans to fight the disease in Romania where 35,000 cases were believed to exist in women and children alone.

This disease is probably the result of insufficient amounts of the "vitamin B complex" in the diet. It can be prevented by eating reasonable quantities of fresh meat, dairy products and certain vegetables.

Once pellagra has developed in serious form, however, bed rest in a hospital may be necessary, as well as a diet containing rather large quantities of milk, meat, eggs, fresh vegetables and enough food to supply an adequate number of calories.

Brewer's yeast and similar substances containing large amounts of the particular portion of vitamin B lacking in pellagra are helpful.

The symptoms of pellagra may be rather indefinite in nature and include such things as irritability (but, of course, there are other causes for this), headache, difficulty in sleeping, weakness and a feeling of mental depression. The digestive system is usually disturbed with vague abdominal pains or intermittent diarrhea.

In the more acute types, fever, general weakness and a rapidly downward trend may lead to death. In the chronic forms—when untreated—there is a tendency to mental deterioration.

The rough skin of pellagra is characteristic. Although pellagra can cause death there are probably many more people whose health is damaged but who manage to survive.

As in the case of other disorders caused by insufficient vitamins, the major effort against this disease should be aimed at prevention. A well balanced diet, including fresh vegetables and dairy products is desirable. If such foods are available there should be no reason for anyone to develop pellagra. Because pellagra preventing foods are relatively costly, however, the disease is more common in regions of the world which are economically depressed.

103rd Ohio Assembly Tug-of-war

Lawmakers Role In Hectic Drama

This is the last of three articles by the New's legislative correspondent, who puts the 103rd Ohio General Assembly session in perspective and points up the underlying causes behind this abnormal political tug-of-war.

By DUANE E. CROFT
News Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — If Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's sweeping program and the Democratic leadership's inexperience helped give the 103rd Ohio General Assembly its "rough and tough" reputation, the legislators themselves played a role in that hectic drama.

An unusually large number of them, especially among the majority, were newcomers to the Legislature, unfamiliar with its workings and unaccustomed to looking at things from a statewide rather than a local viewpoint.

The veteran Democrats were unaccustomed to the responsibility of being in the majority.

The veteran Republicans were unaccustomed to the "constructive opposition" expected of those in the minority position.

THE DEMOCRATS, consequently, were often too willing to blame the other side of the aisle for their own foibles.

The Republicans, in turn, were often too willing to criticize the other side of the aisle for doing things differently — or even on occasion for adopting their own tactics.

One of the big problems for the Democrats was a natural one.

They want to come back next time. To do that, most of them have to face the voters next year.

Yet they were faced with taking stands on such politically hazardous issues as tax increases and governmental reorganization proposed by their party leader — who doesn't have to face the voters for four years and who has indicated he may not choose to do so then.

They wanted to follow his lead for the sake of party unity and because they felt he was at least partially responsible for their presence in the Statehouse. Yet on many individual issues they were fearful of the reaction back home.

THE REPUBLICANS faced a similar problem, but to a lesser degree. Their task was to keep the majority from "going too far" but to avoid being so obstructionist as to completely stymie a program that many Ohioans support — such as highway construction, educational progress, humanitarian mental hygiene, all on a balanced budget.

Widely differing viewpoints within a party are a problem in any legislative body, especially for the majority. Minority members are more free to vote as individuals.

But this divergence of opinion is one of the reasons for a Legislature. It is the place where the various sections and interests of the state come together and attempt to work out their conflicts for the benefit of the whole.

Compromise is he way that is done, with each side giving a little and none of them totally happy with the final solution.

THE 103rd had its compromises, of course. It would have gotten nothing done if it had not.

But it seemed to observers that legislators too often were unwilling to yield to compromises, either with other members of their own parties or with the opposition.

So the compromises frequently were reached only after long, tedious, bitter wrangles that gained little for the antagonists and consumed a lot of time and energy. That heled make the session long and hectic.

This was particularly apparent in committees, where the real work of the Legislature is done.

Among the best examples were the Senate Taxation Committee, which fought the big battle over the sales tax increases, and the House Industry and Labor Committee, which spent months — sometimes working until dawn — trying to put together a workmen's compensation bill that would pass.

ONE OF THE Republican complaints most often heard about the committees was that the views of the minority were not given consideration. Some of the Democratic chairmen, of course, were willing to listen to the suggestions and accept the advice of the more experienced GOP members, but others were too quick to suspect underhanded "plots" to upset what they were trying to do.

Then, if the Republicans pressed

ROCKEFELLER VISIT BRINGS ROMANCE RUMOR — Steven Rockefeller, 23, son of New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, smiled as he posed with Anne Marie Rasmussen, 21, on their arrival in Kristiansand, Norway, to see her parents. Their 150-mile motorbike trip from Oslo sparked rumors of a romance. Anne is the daughter of a Kristiansand grocer, and formerly was a maid in the Rockefeller household.

their views when the issue reached the floor, the Democrats felt only that their original suspicions had been confirmed!

Those were some of the things that made "I've never seen a session like this one" a sort of motto for the 103rd.

Mostly they are a matter of degree, for most of them are present to some extent in every General Assembly.

The 103rd will not go down as the worst in history, nor the best. But one thing seems certain: Whether the Democrats or the Republicans are running it, the 103rd should be easier.

Sen. Mansfield May Ask Hearing On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) said today he may propose an on-the-spot inquiry to get all the facts in a controversy over the foreign aid program in Viet Nam.

Mansfield is chairman of a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee which recalled American aid officials for further questioning today about administration of the program.

He asked the officials to return with a full answer to charges of irregularities in the award of a steel contract in that Southeast Asian republic.

The charges were made by Scripps-Howard writer Albert M. Colegrove, whose series of articles written from Saigon touched off the hearings.

Mansfield said he may suggest to the full Foreign Relations Committee that it send an investigator of its own to Saigon, or ask its foreign policy study group to contract for a special nongovernmental study.

Salem Gives Most For Retarded Fund

Led by the generosity of Salem's residents, donations at the "wells of hope" are running ahead of contributions mailed by Howard Hochmann, treasurer of the Columbiana County Council for Retarded Children, in the Council's county-wide drive to raise $20,000 for its program.

A total of $416.14 has been reported by persons in charge of the wells throughout the county during the first four days of the current drive.

Thus far only $178 has been mailed to Hochmann, he said today. Hochmann, the postmaster at Lisbon, is handling all the mail contributions to the group aiding the county's retarded children between the age of 6 and 18.

The Council needs the $20,000 to expand its program to those both above and below the age group now being handled by the organization, John Billiter, president and general manager of the fund drive said.

Salem residents reached deep into their pockets Thursday and pulled out $70.19 for a new daily high donation toward the goal of $20,000 set by the Columbiana County Council for Retarded Children.

The record donations at the two downtown "wells of hope" pushed the amount collected during the first four days of the drive to $215.54 for Salem.

County-wide, East Liverpool is running a little behind Salem in the amount of donations placed in the wells of hope. Thursday citizens there put about $50 into the containers. The four-day total for East Liverpool was $187.13.

East Palestine reported collections of $3.42 to give it a total of $14.72 for the first three days.

Gas Rates to Increase In Area Sept. 1

Salem's natural gas users will start paying a little higher gas bill beginning Sept. 1. The increase of one-half cent per thousand cubic feet of gas which goes into effect then means an increase of about 15 cents on a $20 gas bill during the winter.

The amount of increase was estimated today by Ohio Fuel Gas Co.'s division manager, D. W. Smith. The rate increase by his company would add only a few cents to the summer bills of the gas company's customers, Smith said.

The average home, which is hard to determine, uses about 30,000 cubic feet of gas during the winter, Smith said. The average bill is about $20 during the winter under the present rates, he added.

The rate hike by the gas company goes into effect under provisions of its fuel cost clauses contained in the local ordinance franchising the company.

The company is permitted to increase its rates in half-cent steps when the cost of the fuel climbs a half cent. Smith said the fuel costs are calculated without including the increased costs of materials and labor.

Salem is one of 103 Ohio communities affected by the rates increase. Other local communities affected are:

Canfield, Columbiana, Hanoverton, Leetonia, Lisbon, New Waterford, Salsville, Sebring, Washingtonville, Beloit, Damascus, East Rochester, Greenford, Guilford, Homeworth, Lake Placencia, New Franklin, New Garden, North Lima, Sevakene Lake, Summitville, Westville Lake and Winona.

The FOP convention was held concurrently with the FOP Association and FOP Ladies Auxiliary state gatherings.

City Solicitor Richard Maier said that Peter T. Scufalos who leases the property has assured city officials the gambling spot will be closed.

The padlock orders were granted against the following places, Maier said. Vet's Smoke Shop, 131 Erie Street south; Schneider's Cigar Store, 62 Erie Street south; T. G. Specialty Co., 58 2nd Street S.W.; Meinhardt's Cigar Store, 65 Erie Street south; a warehouse at 227 Erie Street South; Mike's Cigar Store, 61 Erie Street south; and the Boston Cigar Store, 11 Tremont Ave. S.W.

Earlier this week one Massillon policeman found the handles of his car doors battered. He was one of the 14 conducting the gambling raids.

The father of another policeman was allegedly threatened recently. Most of the 14 policemen sent their families out of state pending the outcome of an investigation headed by Ohio Attorney General Mark McElroy.

McElroy earlier this week began organizing a staff to carry out Gov. DiSalle's order to probe the Stark County's poker houses, narcotics takers, prostitution and bookie joints.

DiSalle today asked finance director James H. Maloon to prepare papers to request $25,000 from the state emergency board to finance the special probe of Stark gambling.

Alexei Semkenin, 46-year-old construction chief, replied as Soviet Foreign Office officials nodded in agreement: "Your words give me assurance that we almost have arrived at that stage. We are doing everything to develop ways and means for peaceful uses. If there is a will, a person can do it."

"We are convinced in our minds that your people do want this co-operation. And we are assured that new discoveries by our scientists will lead the way to new conquests in peaceful progress."

Nixon reached the plant after traveling in a motorcade over rough gravel and dirt roads, churning huge clouds of dust for the 12 miles of the trip from the eastern Ural center of Sverdlovsk.

His hour-long visit, the first to the site by a Western leader, ended his two-day tour of this Ural area rarely opened to foreigners.

Tribe Turns Back Bosox 4-3 On Minoso's 9th Inning Hit

Malzone Blasts Homer In Sixth

Perry, Portocarrero Lock Horns Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, are going to have a lot to say on whether or not Cleveland can forge ahead of Chicago in the American League race during August.

That's because the Indians bump into the Orioles for nine games, starting tonight, in a span of 23 games over the next 23 days.

Up to now the Orioles have won six and lost five with Cleveland. Jim Perry (6-3) who lost one start against Baltimore, pitches tonight against Arnold Portocarrero (1-6).

Indians Get Harshman; Hamner On Injury List

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians today bought pitcher Jack Harshman from the Boston Red Sox for an undisclosed amount.

Boston had acquired the veteran southpaw earlier this season from Baltimore. He won 12 and lost 15 last year with Baltimore but had won only two games while losing nine with the two clubs this year.

To make room for Harshman, the Tribe said utility infielder Granny Hamner will be placed on the disabled list. Hamner reportedly has a leg injury.

to face the Orioles Saturday, beat the Boston Red Sox Thursday when he retired the Sox in order in the ninth inning, then scored the winning run in the Tribe's half of the frame.

He walked, advanced on Vic Power's single and scored on Minnie Minoso's single for a 4-3 victory.

Minoso drove in all the Indians' runs with his three singles. He brought home Billy Martin and Power after they had singled in the third, and in the fifth he scored Martin who singled and went to second on Power's walk. Those runs gave Jim Grant a 3-0 edge in his duel with starter Tom Brewer.

Frank Malzone wiped out that advantage in the sixth with his 14th home run. Gary Geiger and Ted Williams were on base with singles.

Minoso's game-winning hit, the Indians' 12th of the day, came off reliever Mike Fornieles on an inside 3-2 pitch. Minnie now is hitting .295. In his last six seasons he missed bettering .300 only once.

The Tribe goes into the Baltimore series with a new southpaw—Jack Harshman, 32, who started the season with the Orioles and lost seven in a row before he was traded to Boston for Billy Hoft. Harshman's record now is 2-9, compared with 12-15 last season when he had an impressive 2.90 earned run average, against his current 6.75.

When the Indians bought Harshman for cash, they put Granny Hamner on the inactive list for 30 days.

Manager Joe Gordon said that with Herb Score and Don Ferrarese both having arm trouble, "we needed another lefthander in the bullpen."

"I may even start him later on," Gordon said, and added that he might also use Harshman, once a first baseman, for some pinch-hitting.

Hitting—Minnie Minoso, Indians, kept Cleveland within game of American League lead by driving in all runs of 4-3 victory, breaking 3-3 tie in ninth with third single.

Pitching—Early Wynn, White Sox, became American League's top winner (14-6) with 3-1 decision over Yankees that retained Chicago's one-game lead, striking out nine and walking but one while allowing six hits.

The opening of the Erie Canal in 1825 did much to promote the commerce and other industrial attractions of Albany, N.Y.

County Softball Event Opens Next Wednesday

Despite recent rainouts which will delay completion of regular season's play in the city's softball loops, the County Tournament will get underway here next Wednesday as scheduled, Tournery Director Dave Briskin said today.

Tournament drawings are slated for 9 p.m. Tuesday at Kelley field. Teams have until that time to officially enter the double elimination tourney.

Although some entries are not official, indications are that some 14 teams will enter competition.

Among the outfits already entered is Salem's top Class AA leader, SAIDC. This club boasts some of the area's top stars in Sam Pridon, Jim Barnes, Dick Wyss, Ken Schoeni, Pitcher Bill Herman and others. Dumps Baisley is manager of SAIDC.

The league's number three team, Stepanics, last year's league and playoff winner but always a jinx team in tourney play, has indicated it will enter again. The Kensington crew has impressed with its hustle. If it makes its entry official as expected, this club will give all teams a battle.

Beloit is led by Dan Murphy, Jim Wizeneker and Big John Baker. Charles Bancroft has done most of the hurrying for the team which is now in second place.

Shaffer Fords are definitely in. The Greenford dominated team features a pair of fine hurlers in Bruce Feicht and Dave Hiner. A slick fielding infield keeps Doc Hiner's combine on the move.

Herron Transfer, last year's representative in the state tourney, is a definite entry. This club has been considerably weakened by the loss of ace hurler Leo Kline. Bob Spiker also left the city, leaving the pitching problem to Ben Roelen and Jim Cosgara.

Leontia OSI with probably the fastest pitcher in the league in Larry Hartfelder could give the field some competition on this strength alone.

Old Dutch, tailender in Class AA is also a definite entry. Battered by the pitching of vacationing Dick Jackson and Wayne Hahn this team could surprise.

FROM THE CITY A League will come Lincoln Machine, Joe Yuhaniak's pride and joy. Last year's playoff champion and boasting such stalwarts as Bill Odorizzi, Frank Lanney, Charley Marks, Judge Guiler, and others shouldn't

A's Dump Senators For 11th Win In Row

By The Associated Press
Where do the Kansas City A's go from here? They've pulled off an incredible jump from the cellar to third place with an 11-game streak, longest in the American League in five years, but can they crack the exclusive, two-club "first division?"

Starks Upset By Jaycee Team

Larry Kibler Turns In Good Performance

The winningest team in all divisions of the Hot Stove League took one on the chin last night and it didn't even come close.

Stark's Colonial Attic went into the game with 18 wins in 20 starts in Class H competition but when the fog had lifted it found itself on the short end of an 11-1 score with the Jaycees.

Little Larry Kibler yielded a single to lead off batter George Christofaris, then closed the door the rest of the way on the power laden Stark nine. Besides pitching the fine one-hitter, Kibler helped his own cause with a pair of doubles in two trips to the plate.

Gary Schuster, John Milnarick and Christofaris all took the mound for Stark's with varying degrees of success. Wildness, a problem that has bothered most of the young Class H pitchers all season long, was again the downfall of the losers. The strike zone of the 6 to 8 year-olds doesn't give the pitcher much of a target to shoot at.

In the only other Hot Stove League score recorded last night, Kresge's won by a forfeit over Select Dairies. It was Select's 18th consecutive loss without a win this year. All other league games were postponed due to wet grounds.

Golf Club Clambake Set for Wednesday

The Salem Golf Club's 32nd annual clambake and golf tournament will be held at the club all day Wednesday, Aug. 5.

Golf play will begin at 9 a.m. The event at the local club has become a great attraction to members and their guests from throughout the Salem district.

Ralph Zimmerman is general chairman.

The clambake, for which a large tent is erected for luncheon and dinner, was begun by charter members of the club a short time after the club was founded in 1921. One of the early members still active in the club and the running of the clambake is Raymond Yates.

Lunch is to be served to members and guests from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday. Dinner, when the famed steamed clams will be served, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Softball Attraction At Sebring Monday

One of the top attractions in softball, "The King and His Court," will be in Sebring Monday night to play that city's entry in Salem's Class AA softball loop.

The four-man team, featuring trick pitcher Eddie Feigher, will take on the Sebring club at 7:30 p.m. at McKinley Stadium in a benefit game for that city's youth baseball program. Currently in sixth place in the Salem loop, Sebring has won six out of 14 games.

New Glasgow, N.S.—Jesse Watson, 138, New York, outpointed Jackie Hayden, 134, New Glasgow, 10.

Los Angeles — Curly Lee, 183, Phoenix, knocked out Paul Andrews, 195, Buffalo, N.Y., 6.

St. Louis Tops Cincinnati 1-0

Lawrence Again Good In Relief

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds again are two games out of sixth place in the National League but there is encouragement for the final two months of the season.

The Reds and O'Toole lost a 1-0 decision to St. Louis Thursday night but Lawrence allowed only one hit in two innings of relief pitching, after O'Toole went seven good innings.

In the past few weeks Springfield's Lawrence has been used exclusively in relief. Since July 1 he has pitched 25 innings, allowing only 18 hits and 8 runs.

He has won three games this month and helped protect Cincinnati victories in three others.

Maybe Lawrence will solve the Reds' long-time relief pitching problem.

Thursday night's game was a heart-breaker for the youthful O'Toole.

He gave up a run to the Cards in the second inning on a double by Ken Boyer and a single by Joe Cunningham. After that he matched pitches with Bob Gibson, Cardinal rookie just recalled from Omaha of the American Association.

O'Toole finally was lifted for a pinch hitter.

The Reds got eight hits off Gibson but they were spaced over seven innings. His biggest scare came in the ninth.

Jerry Lynch opened with a single but was forced by Ed Bailey, Willie Jones fouled out but Frank Thomas, batting for Roy McMillan, walked on four pitches. That brought Manager Solly Hemus out for a talk with his hurler. Gibson then walked pinch hitter Don Newcome on four straight pitches.

Once again Hemus came out but again he elected to stay with "b." The first two pitches to John Temple were balls but Gibson then got him to fly out.

Gibson's performance was all the more disheartening to the Reds because Farm Director Phil Seghi said the 23-year-old hurler once was within a few hours of being a Cincinnati player.

Seghi said that the Reds scouted Gibson at Creighton University and that by 2 o'clock one morning he had agreed to verbal terms.

"But by daylight he had jumped to the Cardinals," Seghi said.

McFarland Advances To Final Tennis Round

LAKEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Championship matches were scheduled today in the Northern Ohio Tennis Tournament here.

Dick McFarland of Canton advanced to the men's singles finals by defeating Doug Ganim of Cleveland, 6-1, 6-1, in a semi-final match Thursday. In the other semifinal, Bob Thompson of Youngstown beat Alex Cmaylo of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-1, 6-1.

McFarland and Thompson defeated Ken Kimble and Dan Braden of Toledo, 6-3, 7-5, in the men's doubles semifinals. The other semifinal was stopped by darkness.

Craig Mielke of Columbus meets Bill Ewing of Alliance for the junior boys' singles title. Mielke, downed James Meyer of Youngstown, 6-2, 6-1, and Ewing defeated Hugh Darley of Lorain, 11-9, 7-5 Thursday.

Sue Miller of Toledo ousted Ingrid Tuchman of Akron, 6-2, 6-4, in the women's singles semifinals. Barbara Rochelle of Toledo beat Martha Zavoda of Canton, 6-4, 6-4, in the other match.

San Francisco Regains First Place

Giants Turn Back Phillies 7-2; Pirates Top Dodgers 5-4 In 12

By The Associated Press

San Francisco is back in the National League lead, but it took a whale of a parlay to do it—five unearned runs, a 4-for-4 debut by rookie Willie McCovey and Pittsburgh's first victory in 10 games.

The Giants cut their own slump at four and moved into first place by a half-game as McCovey, a .377 hitter at Phoenix some 12 hours earlier, smacked a pair of triples, scored three runs and drove in two for a 7-2 decision Thursday over the Philadelphia Phillies, who chipped in four errors.

Pittsburgh cleared the way for the Giants by beating Los Angeles 5-4 in 12 innings, skidding the Dodgers to third. Milwaukee took over second place with a 6-2 decision over the Chicago Cubs, hammering four home runs as Warren Spahn gained his 260th victory.

St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 1-0 with Bob Gibson blanking the Reds on eight hits in his first major league start.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox retained a one-game lead over Cleveland by beating New York, 3-1 as Early Wynn (14-6) became the AL's top winner. The Indians defeated Boston 4-3 on Minnie Minoso's four RBI. Kansas City rolled into third place, 8½ games back, with a 4-1 victory over Washington, the A's 11th in a row. Detroit whipped Baltimore 11-2.

McCovey, 21, a lean 6-4 first baseman, also singled twice in his first major league game after Manager Bill Rigney shook up the Giants' line-up, switching Orlando Cepeda from first to third base and benching Jim Davenport.

A one-out single by Ray Mejias, following a single by Dick Groat and Bill Virdon's double, won it for the Pirates, who blew 3-0 and 4-3 leads. Benny Daniels (6-6) was the winner in relief, but needed a dandy assist by lefty Don Gross—who got Wally Moon on an infield out and then fanned Duke Snider with the tying run on third.

Mejias also homered for the Bucs, against Dodger starter

Johnny Podres. Stan Williams (4-4) was the loser.

The Braves moved .003 percent, age points ahead of the Dodgers and within .003 of the Giants by handing left-hander Art Ceccarelli his first defeat in five decisions. Consecutive homers by Felix Mantilla and Hank Aaron clinched it in the third.

Spahn (14-10) beat the Cubs a third time this year. He allowed five hits, one Bobby Thomson's ninth homerun.

Gibson, 23, a right-hander just up from Omaha, where he was 9-9, got out of a bases-loaded jam in the ninth when Johnny Temple filed out to end it. Jim O'Toole (2-5) was the loser.

Grandfathers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Whatever happened to the old-fashioned grandfather? As a child I felt vaguely cheated by life because I had never known a grandpa. One of my grandfathers was dead. The other dwelt all alone in faraway Ireland. Once he sent a photo of himself. It showed a misty-faced white-whiskered old man smoking a pipe as he sat on the doorstep of his small farm home. Ever since then I have thought of him as Father Time. As a small boy, after being punished, I used to lie awake for hours at night wishing he were near so I could tell him my troubles. In my mind's eye he was like the grandfather pictured sometimes on the cheap colored calendars the neighborhood grocer gave away free in good years. Grandpa was quite a sentimental figure on those calendars, and I suppose there were still millions like him in real life.

It was Grandpa who stood as a kindly shield between a little boy and the rest of the adult world. It was Grandpa who took the boy fishing or gave him his first real knife.

Best of all, Grandpa never seemed so eternally busy with his own problems. That made him different from all other grownups. He always had time to pause to listen to a small boy's woes and answer his wondering questions, and tell strange and fascinating tales of how the world had been when he had been a small boy, too, ages and ages ago.

Whatever happened to that old-fashioned grandpa? If he still survives, he must be hiding in the small towns. You sure don't see him very often in the big city. The big-city grandpa has gone big time. Grandpa wears a sport shirt instead of a cane. You don't find him hanging around a park playing checkers with old cronies. His game is gin rummy.

Grandpa cares more for an afternoon nap than an afternoon nap. He is less interested in a tip on how to cure rheumatism than he is in a tip on the stock market or what horse looks good in the third race at Jamaica.

Does Grandpa love to baby-sit his grandchildren? Are you kidding? By day he is too busy taking hormone shots at the doctor's or chip shots on the golf course. At night he and Grandma are too busy doing the cha-cha. Who keeps the night clubs going? It's foxy old Grandpa. Look at the dance floor of any good night club. For every teen-age lad you'll see five sprightly grandpas. Only Grandpa can foot the tariff. I used to envy the kids who had an old-fashioned grandpa. Not any more. I've got a new ambition. Now I just want to become a modern-type grandpa myself — and really start living.
